

HAMPTON, PHOEBUS AND OLD POINT—Continued.

Big Game on the Nile.
A traveler on the upper Nile gives this picture of big game that abounds there: "Of wild animals elephants take the first place; there are enormous herds of them, and the ivory is of the greatest size. A big herd wanders down from the banks of Eigon and uses a remarkable elephant road, which is apparently used only during the season of migration. This herd frequently crosses the Nile at the southern end of the lake-like extension near Wadela. Hippopotami come next in size and are to be found in countless numbers in the Nile. When the tributary rivers are in flood they go a long way up them. Were it not for the fact that in the Nile they are extremely dangerous and cause considerable loss of life, they might well be preserved, for they do little other harm—a very small fence is sufficient to keep them out of cultivation."

Woman's Work.
A lady doctor writing to the London Chronicle on "Women Workers" makes the following unanswerable statement: "if you come to estimate a day's work, even in foot pounds, the woman who cleans, bakes, washes and takes to school six children, carries water and tramps up stairs and down for sixteen hours a day, need not fear comparison as to kinetic energy even with a miner working eight hours."

True, but is all this quite necessary? asks Punch. Could not her children sometimes go to school unaccompanied and unloved? And why must she keep on carrying tramps up and down stairs all that time? Is it even fair on these poor unemployed?

WHITE AND GREEN SPOT AT BUCKROE

Popular Resort is Now Putting on a "New Dress" for Opening of Season Next Month.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS IN HOTEL

Structure Will be Thoroughly Renovated From Top to Bottom. Landscape Gardener to Make the Lawns Attractive. Sites Southern Stock Company at Theatre.

That Buckroe Beach is going to be one of the most inviting summer resorts in Virginia this season has been made possible by the decision of manager Charles W. Rex to add many attractive improvements to the resort.

For the last ten days Mr. Rex has had a force of men at work repainting the buildings and during the next week the entire resort will wear a "new and fresh costume" of white and green paint. The interior of the pavilion is to be painted white with green trimmings while the large breakwater overlooking Chesapeake Bay will also be painted the same color.

Tomorrow an additional force of men will be put to work repainting and repainting the hotel interior. "I am going to paint, repair and thoroughly renovate the hotel from top to bottom," said Mr. Rex. When we have completed the work on the hotel the building will present the appearance of a new structure.

"Buckroe shall continue the one spot for the mothers to take their children with the knowledge that they can spend an enjoyable day, seeing many attractions, and without having to deal with any rough element."

Another decided feature in the improvement will be found in the yards and lawns. An expert landscape gardener is expected to come to the beach tomorrow and he will beautify the place.

Many beautiful growing plants will be placed in the lawn just in front of the pavilion and hotel.

On the pavilion, Manager Rex has secured such attractions as the glass-blowers, wire-makers, Japanese novelties, and other concessions.

The little breezy theatre will open with the Sites Southern Stock Company, an organization that spent last season in British Columbia, and won the good will of the press and people. The opening bill will be the melodrama, "As Told in the Hills," while the last three nights of the opening week the company will present "A Boy Wanted." Eight vaudeville numbers are given at each performance, between the acts.

Mr. Rex has already received many applications for accommodations at the hotel during the season and he is of the opinion that this will prove the banner year of Buckroe Beach since it opened eight years ago.

As has already been announced, Buckroe Beach will be formally opened on the evening of May 12, when the hotel and dancing pavilion will be ready for the public.

Manager Rex has an aeronaut for the opening week, who will make an ascension each night, going up about 1,000 feet with the parachute drop.

Carl Johnson Taken to Hospital.

Carl Johnson, a middle aged man, was overcome in Victoria Avenue with an attack of heart trouble yesterday afternoon. Messrs. R. S. Huddins, Jr. and J. C. Outten assisted him. Dr. Harry D. Howe had Johnson removed to the Dixie Hospital where he was said to be resting nicely last night. Mr. Johnson said he was looking for Mr. Jacobson, a civil engineer, when the illness came upon him.

FIRE AND AIR.

The Ancients Recognized the Intimate Relations Between Them.

The intimate relation between fire and air was early recognized, seeing that experience soon taught that air was necessary for fire. The experiment of burning a candle in a closed vessel, now so familiar to every school-boy, is a very old one, and the influence of a blast of air on a furnace had been probably noticed from a very remote period. By some it was affirmed to be the food of fire, while by others the same belief was embodied in the phrase, "Air nourishes fire."

Again, it was long ago observed that after a substance well known to the chemical philosophers of the past, could produce intense ignition. It was hence inferred that, since water possessed this property, it necessarily followed that the two substances resembled each other in composition. According to Robert Boyle, the air contained "volatile matter," while Lord Bacon held that air contained a "volatile, crude and windy spirit," and thunder and lightning were supposed to be due to the presence of minute particles of this water diffused through air.

The important bearing of such observations is due to the fact that oxygen gas, which is one of the chief constituents of air and the one to which it owes its power of supporting combustion, also forms the largest elementary constituent of water and is likewise the source of the power possessed by that body of supporting combustion.

The action of heat on metals in causing them to lose their metallic luster had also not escaped notice, and Cardan, a philosopher who lived during the sixteenth century, in noticing the increase in weight that lead undergoes when heated in air, attributed it to the gas in the air, which feeds flame and which retards a body presenting an ignited surface.

Cold Feet.

Never go to bed with cold feet; never try to sleep without being perfectly certain that you will be able to keep them warm. To lie one night with cold feet gives such a strain to the system as will be felt seriously, perhaps ending in a fit of sickness. Cold feet show an unbalanced circulation. The very best thing to do is to warm them by exercise, if that be practicable; if not, by dipping them in hot and cold water alternately two or three times and then using vigorous friction. If that does not warm them and keep them warm, heat them before the fire, drying them thoroughly, and then correct your habits or improve your health, for be sure that one or the other is wrong, perhaps both.

Washington Irving.

A house in William street, New York, was Irving's birthplace on April 8, 1783. The British were soon to evacuate the city and Washington to take possession of it. Mrs. Irving, a warm-hearted woman of English birth and an ardent patriot of the new land, said, "Washington's work is ended, and the child shall be named after him." The child was still in the care of a Scotch nurse when one day she saw the president, as Washington then was, enter a shop, and after him she went. "Please, your honor," said she, "here's a bairn named after you." The president laid his hand on the boy's head and gave him a blessing, which he never forgot.

A Jewel of a Wife.

The minister's wife had an unwelcome visitor in a very talkative scandal monger, so the minister went out for a stroll. Returning half an hour later, he called out, "That old cat gone, I suppose?" "Yes," said his wife, who had still her guest talking to her. "I sent it home in a basket, my dear, this morning." "What do you think of that for presence of mind and absence of cat?" Christian Life.

Bottles.

Ancient bottles of glass, stone and metal have been found in many parts of Europe, Asia and Africa. Perfume bottles of glass have been discovered in great numbers in the tombs of wealthy ladies of Egypt. Many bottles, tumblers and other drinking vessels have been dug from the ruins of Pompeii. The most common bottle of the ancients, however, was of leather, the skin of a calf, goat or ox being taken off the carcass with as few cuts as possible and made into a receptacle for holding water or wine. The largest glass bottle ever blown was made at Leith, in Scotland, in 1747-48. Its capacity was two hogheads.
